Third U. S. Army Surges Into Bulge For Fresh Gains Of Almost Five Miles

OTHER GAINS BEING MADE AGAINST NAZIS

By THURSTON MACAULEY
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Jan. 22.—German forces in the disintegrating Ardennes salient in Belgium and Luxembourg are rolling back toward the Siegfried line along a 15-mile front, Allied supreme headquarters revealed today, as the U. S. Third Army surged into the bulge for fresh gains of almost five miles.

The communique issued at the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said the German retreat was along a line extending from a point south of liberated Houffalize southward to the area north of Diekirch and that the withdrawal was orderly and marked with brisk rearward action.

Germans Moving Back

Allied headquarters added that the Nazi withdrawal was believed to be due to the fact the Nazis were short of supplies and adequate communications. Moreover, the Germans were reported to have abandoned attempts to hold unfavorable terrain.

Earlier reports from the front said the Germans were moving back toward the Reich along a 20-mile front.

Both the British Second Army to the north of the Ardennes bulge and the eastern frontier of Holland.

"Hail and Farewell" was about all that the two Myers brothers got to say to each other as they passed in the station, one on his way back to Fort Meade, after a furlough with his family, on R. D. 1, and the other on his way home for a short visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Myers.

After a comparatively sunny Sunday, Old Man Winter did a come-back this morning, as snow again came down in considerable quantity. Some slippery traffic conditions were provided.

There are some boys in this city who are toying with a lot of trouble. Throwing snowballs at the windows of loaded city buses is a practice that carries a severe penalty under the law and is liable to cause injury to persons riding in the buses.

One of the worst side streets Sunday evening was Winter avenue, the hilly part of it just as you turn west off Highland avenue. Three cars had struggled on up to the top after sliding into the curb several times, but a fourth one coasted back down to Highland, after making three tries. Taunted by some boys who were hitch-hiking rides on the corner, the driver leaned out to shout indignantly that "he was driving a car, not a Swiss Alpine climber."

The weather forecaster seems to be a bit confused these days, his predictions recently having gone much awry. Saturday, the forecast said rain, and it turned out to be a beautiful sunny day. This morning, the forecast said snow late this evening, and indications late this morning were that it would continue throughout the day.

President Is Giving Wallace Chance To Get 1948 Nomination

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—President Roosevelt has given Henry Agard Wallace a chance today to become the Democratic presidential nominee in 1948 by choosing him as his fourth term secretary of commerce, with its vast control over a multitude of government finance and business organizations.

Turn Powers Over To Wallace

The President "fired" Jesse Jones in order to turn his great government powers over to Wallace for three reasons. First, the President has a warm personal affection for Wallace. Second, he desired to reward Wallace for his great loyalty in the fourth term campaign. And third, the President really wanted to place a token in his own personal conscience for having dropped Wallace from the fourth term ticket—a token that gave Wallace.

Retreating Nazis Torn To Pieces By Air Attacks

All-Out Aerial Assault Is Made On Nazis Trying To Quit 'Bulge' Area

By THURSTON MACAULEY
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Jan. 22.—Beaten German forces pulling out of the deflated Belgian bulge were torn to pieces by the Allied air force today when clear weather permitted all-out aerial assault against the retreating enemy columns.

Reconnaissance craft spotted nearly 3,000 German vehicles hastily pulling out of the salient along a 15-mile front and hundreds of planes attached to the 19th Tactical Air Force went into action.

Rapid Sorties

Fifty-five sorties were carried out in the space of a short time and first reports showed 228 motor transports destroyed and 65 damaged.

In addition, 15 Nazi tanks were blasted out of action. Hundreds of German troops were killed in the concentrated air attacks, which were launched coincident with fresh United States Third Army ground gains of almost five miles, and a rapid thrust to the outskirts of St. Vith, last remaining key-point in the once-dangerous enemy salient.

Italian Front Action Is Held Up By Weather

ROME, Jan. 22.—(INS)—Bad weather stalled action on the Italian front, with activity confined largely to artillery duels and patrol operations in deep snow, allied Mediterranean headquarters announced today. The Mediterranean air force flew 150 sorties.

A German raiding party preceded by an artillery barrage was thrown back after penetrating eighth army positions northwest of Alphonse. Oil installations in Austria, at Fiume and near Cavazzere, and Po valley and Brenner ridges were bombed yesterday following night bomber attacks on railways at Udine in northern Italy and communications behind the enemy line. Northern Italy communications and shipping in the Adriatic were bombed, while other aircraft dropped supplies in Yugoslavia. The Balkan air force blasted oil storage tanks at Pola.

Two enemy aircraft were shot down. Seventeen allied planes are missing.

Soviet Army In Attack On Nazis Is 101 Divisions

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(INS)—The Red army is attacking East Prussia with 101 infantry division and eight large armored formations, the Nazi DNB agency said today in a dispatch to the controlled European press.

The dispatch, reported by the FCC, said that 58 infantry divisions and six mechanized corps were attacking on the southern flank, while 43 infantry divisions and two large armored formations were in action on the eastern flank.

Nomination Of Wallace Given To Senate Today

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(INS)—President Roosevelt today nominated Henry A. Wallace to be secretary of commerce and chief of the government's vast lending agencies thus provoking a major rift between the right and left wings of his administration.

Mr. Roosevelt's nomination of the former vice president to succeed Jesse Jones was sent to the Senate at noon. The White House disclosed Wallace's nomination without any formal announcement, but Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early indicated that Mr. Roosevelt would have a statement later in the day. He would not discuss the contents of the expected statement.

In addition to the commerce post, the president selected Wallace to assume executive control of the 42-billion dollar lending agencies.

President Provokes Major Warfare Between Wings Of Administration By Appointment

JESSE JONES "FIRED" TO PLACE WALLACE

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—President Roosevelt has provoked a major war between the right and left wings of his administration today by "firing" Jesse Jones as secretary of commerce in order to turn that post, along with its executive control of the government's twelve billion dollar lending agencies, over to Ex-Vice President Henry A. Wallace.

It has been well known in Washington for a week that the president was going to name Wallace as secretary of commerce for his fourth term but almost everybody believed he would restore Jones to his old post as Federal Loan Administrator in charge of the Reconstruction Corporation and other federal lending agencies. Instead the president stripped Jones of all his posts in order to turn all of them over to Wallace.

Starts Open Warfare

This decision to place Wallace in charge of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other federal lending agencies, with their billions of dollars of federal monies, was the signal for open warfare between the right and left wings of the administration.

FORTIFICATIONS BEING BUILT NEAR BERLIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(INS)—Swedish newspaper accounts reported today to the OWI said that fortifications were being constructed outside of Berlin and that a "state of emergency" had been declared in "large parts" of upper Silesia, threatened by the Red Army offensive.

The newspaper expressed said that Berliners had been "entrapped" by the construction of a 100-kilometer (62-mile) stretch of fortification from Frankfurt-on-the-Oder to Oderberg. It declared that the work would be performed first by the Volkstrum, foreign workers, women and members of the Hitler Youth organization "as it is desired to maintain armament production as long as possible."

PLANES HEADED FOR TOKYO

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(INS)—Several planes "presumed to be enemy" are apparently headed for Tokyo after appearing over the Shizuoka prefecture of Honshu from the south, the Tokyo radio said at 7:45 p. m. (6:45 a. m. EDT) today.

Declaring alerts were sounded in the Tokyo-Yokohama and Yokosuka areas, the station blacked out after reporting the planes were entering the southwest region of the Tokyo area.

Yanks Speeding Luzon Advance Toward Manila

Push Steadily Ahead From Captured Tarlac Toward Capital Of Philippines

CLARK FIELD NEXT OBJECTIVES OF YANKS

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Jan. 22.—A stretch drive today on Luzon Island as American forces pushed forward with increasing speed from points beyond the key communications center of Tarlac which lies 65 miles north of the Philippines' capital city.

Two American columns striking from the liberated towns of Santa Ignacia and Paniqui swept unopposed into Tarlac after Filipino guerrillas drove a Jap rear guard of 15 men out of the city which had been burned and dynamited before the main enemy garrison of 2,000 troops withdrew.

A delayed dispatch from Howard Handelman, International News Service War Correspondent with the Americans at Tarlac, reported that United States forces entered the town yesterday "opposed only by a single enraged carabao which the soldiers had to kill". Handelman gave full credit for clearing the town of Japs to Filipino guerrillas who, he said, "Have been operating ahead of our lines ever since we hit Luzon."

Town Virtually Razed

Although Tarlac, with a normal population of 16,000 was virtually razed by the retreating enemy hosts, its capture set the stage for a push down the plains north of Manila, with Clark field, 22 miles north of the capital, as the primary objective of Lieut. Gen. Walter Krueger's hard-driving Sixth Army troops.

Advance of the Americans beyond Tarlac presaged capture of Camp O'Donnell, several miles to the west.

Jap Attempt To Bolster Forces On Luzon Fails

PEARL HARBOR, Jan. 22.—(INS)—The smashing of an attempt by the Japs to bolster their air forces on Luzon island was revealed today in a dispatch issued by Pacific fleet headquarters.

The communique reported that American carrier-based aircraft shot down 16 enemy planes which were attempting to fly from Formosa to Luzon January 19, indicating that strong Pacific fleet forces are maintaining a virtual blockade of aircraft taking bases between the enemy homeland and embattled Luzon.

Jap Claims Unconfirmed

American sources did not confirm enemy reports of air-sea action around Formosa. The Tokyo radio, following up a Domei agency dispatch reporting that 450 carrier-borne planes attacked Formosa and Okinawa Island, in the Ryukyu chain, claimed that Jap air units had "heavily damaged and set ablaze three aircraft carriers and one unidentified type of ship" in an attack on an American task force yesterday in waters east of Formosa.

The unsubstantiated claims were broadcast by the Tokyo home radio in the Japanese language and recorded and translated by the FCC.

U. S. Planes Blast Japs

The Pacific fleet communique also reported that American land-based planes continued their smashes against enemy island bases. Liberators bombed installations on two Jima, in the Volcanos, and Chichi Jima, in the Bonins, January 18, shooting down one of three enemy interceptors at Iwo and starting fires in barracks and warehouse areas at Chichi. These enemy bases, roughly midway between Tokyo and Saipan, have been used to launch raids against American Superfortress fields in the Marianas.

Roosevelt To Prepare For Next Parley

Inauguration Over, President Plans For Coming Stalin-Churchill Conference

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—President Roosevelt, his fourth term inauguration now history, today prepared for his next great war strategy conference with Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin as Russian armies plunged deeper into Germany in their great eastern front offensive.

The time of Mr. Roosevelt's forthcoming meeting with the other two leaders of the Allied "Big Three" will not be made public until after the conference is concluded.

Secrecy Prevails

Likewise, the site of the new Allied war conference is shrouded in secrecy, but it will be at a place selected by Marshal Stalin—agreeable, however, to both Roosevelt and Churchill.

Clearing the way for the President's important new talks with Churchill and Stalin, both in the field of war strategy and diplomatic maneuvering in the liberated countries of Europe, Harry Hopkins, the President's number one advisor, will go to London to confer with Churchill prior to the later meeting between the three leaders.

The President's new secretary, Stephen T. Early, also will leave the country for Europe within a short time, presumably as one of the advance party going with Hopkins.

In his new conference with Churchill and Stalin, the President faces perhaps the greatest problems of any of his earlier war meetings.

The overturning and capture of East Prussia will have tremendous decisive strategic results in this war. In the first place, it will cut off any and all German units from relief by land that are still left to the Soviet armies.

Russian Drives Against Germans Smashing Ahead

Report Soviet Troops Within 35 Miles Of Koenigsberg—Other Armies Sweep On

REDS 20 MILES INSIDE SILESIA

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Jan. 22.—Another great garrison of supposedly "impregnable" German strength fell to swiftly advancing Soviet armies today when the East Prussian city of Insterburg was captured by the Third White Russian army.

With other Russian forces already 20 miles deep inside German Silesia and only 196 miles from Berlin, Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin signaled the momentous gains of his forces in a special order of the day announcing liberation of Insterburg from German rule.

The city, with a normal population of 43,000 is a key rail junction on the line leading to Koenigsberg, capital of East Prussia, which is now only 50 miles away from the Russian vanguard.

Taken By Assault

Stalin addressed his order to Gen. Ivan Cherniakovskiy, commander in chief of the Third White Russian front, saying that Insterburg described as the hub of a powerful fortified zone in East Prussia, had been taken by assault.

A terrific long-range artillery barrage preceded the capture of Insterburg.

A Moscow dispatch to London said that the Russians were within 35 miles of Koenigsberg.

Flaming Corridor

The terrific Red army bombardment turned the highway toward the East Prussian capital into a flaming corridor.

Earlier the Second White Russian army crushed deeper into the south of East Prussia to seize the historic city of Tannenberg while the First Ukrainian army, smashing through miles of smoking war factories fired by the retreating Germans, reached Koenigsberg, 20 miles inside German Silesia.

(Col. Ernst Van Hammer, German DNB agency military commentator, reporting Red forces had reached Gross Stelitz, 18 miles southeast of Oppeln on the main railway line from Breslau, said: "It looks as if the Russians are combining frontal attack with a pincer thrust designed to outflank this industrial area north and south.")

Charges Soldier And Strip Tease Dancer Guilty

By JOSEPH THOMAS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Prosecuting Attorney L. T. Byrne bluntly told a London jury today that U. S. Pvt. Karl Gustav Hulten, 22, Boston, Mass., and Strip Tease Dancer Elizabeth Jones, 18, were equally guilty of the murder of George "Chet" Chinn, Heath London taxi driver.

Byrne made his accusation in summing up the crown's case before the jury, shortly after Hulten was questioned for an hour and a half, during which he admitted that he and Mrs. Jones had entered Heath's cab on the night of last Oct. 6 with the intention of robbing the driver.

Hulten testified that at the time he was AWOL that he was not drawing army pay. He denied that he had ordered Mrs. Jones to enter Heath's cab with him.

Mrs. Jones testified last week that Hulten had "terrified" her.

Both Hulten and Mrs. Jones, whose British husband has been reported missing in action, had entered pleas of not guilty to charges of murdering Heath, whose body was found in a ditch on the outskirts of London.

Defensive Success Is German Claim

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(INS)—The German high command claimed in a communique today that strong Soviet forces were broken up in Hungary between Lake Balaton and the Danube.

The communique said that the front in Upper Silesia, on the eastern and northeastern rim of the industrial area, had been consolidated by German troops, who scored "impressive defensive successes."

"East of Oppeln, capital of Upper Silesia, the Soviets were able to gain ground after fierce fighting," the statement said.

Southeast of Lodz, as well as between Kolicz and Thorn (Thorn) heavy fighting is going on, the communique stated.

The communique reported from eastern east Prussia that the Russian had extended their attacks to include the sector south of the Rominen River.

Between Ellpaw and Insterburg all Russian break-through attempts were foiled in bitter fighting, the communique claimed.

DETROIT, Jan. 22.—(INS)—Police today held five members of the ring which allegedly was responsible for the theft of thousands of dollars worth of automobile parts from the Ford Motor company's Highland Park plant.

GERMAN FORCES RETREATING TO SIEGFRIED LINE

land, and the French First Army at the southern end of the western front, made hard-won gains against mounting Nazi opposition.

At the same time the Germans threw in additional divisions at the bridgehead across the Rhine above Strasbourg in a mounting attempt to score gains which, while strategically would be relatively unimportant, would provide political material to divert attention from the Nazi failure to break through from the Ardennes salient.

Nearing St. Vith

Gen. Eisenhower's communique disclosed that U. S. First Army units of armor and infantry stormed into and beyond the town of Born to positions only two and a half miles from the vital Nazi-held communications hub of St. Vith.

St. Vith is the last major stronghold within the area of the Belgian salient. Yank forces stormed through wooded areas east of Born toward St. Vith while a second column moved against the city from the northwest.

The Americans ploughed through deep snow and slithered over ice-covered roads as they pushed the Germans back on their St. Vith defenses.

On the southern shoulder of the dwindling bulge the Third Army was revealed by supreme headquarters to have seized Visseuse, Tavigny, Caturru and Buret. Armored forces of the Third Army swept through Malmédy and Lullange to seize Hoffer 11 miles northeast of Bastogne.

Race To Wiltz River

Armored-tipped infantry columns also raced to the Wiltz river at a point three miles west of Wiltz, Bouscheid and Burden, to the west of Sauer, also were cleared by American forces as they rolled the Nazis back toward the Reich.

From dispirited reports that the Third Army advanced over the frozen terrain for a mile and entered the town of Wiltz.

North of Diekirch Third Army troops drove the Nazis from Bastendorf and advanced to the outskirts of Landscheid.

The retreating Germans made a stand just north of Nennig and counter-attacked with strong forces of armor and infantry which slowed Yank progress while a second enemy counter-move in the vicinity of Tettigen was driven back.

Counter-Attack Repulsed

German infantry numbering some 450 men staged a brisk counter-attack at Saarlautern which also was repulsed by the Yanks while German aggressiveness in the Bitcher salient has subsided to patrol clashes.

North of Strasbourg where the Germans are believed to have thrown between five to six divisions into the fight to expand their bridgehead over the Rhine, the Germans staged still another counter-thrust which was sent reeling back after 18 supporting enemy tanks had been destroyed.

The French First Army raced forward over a 25-mile front toward the Colmar pocket despite mounting Nazi opposition and heavy snow drifts to seize new ground and several hundred prisoners.

On the British Second Army sector to the north a German force moved into Middelaaar but was quickly dispersed by mortar fire.

All Nazi forces between the Jullua canal and the Maas river in eastern Holland and the regions of Eicht and Steenwerd were mopped up when two British columns joined forces.

southwest, terminus of the infamous "March of Death" by the heroic United States defenders on Batan.

While the liberators of Tarlac pushed down the road to Manila in the western sector, American forces on the eastern flank widened the United States front with a drive into the outskirts of San Manuel and a crossing of the upper Agno river near Santa Maria, north of Rosales, which itself was swept up by other columns in a push eastward from Carmen through Rosales and Balanzon to San Leon.

Futile Jap Attack

Southeast of Rosales, the communique reported, Jap forces made a "futile night counter-attack" at Menebaca, which was "bloodily repulsed."

Sharp fighting continued in this area, front dispatches said, and the Americans now hold a crescent-shaped line reaching from the outskirts of San Manuel in the south through Sison to the Rosario sector in the north.

With the seizure of Tarlac, Americans moved to a point 50 miles south of the Lingayen beachhead which they established January 9 and also won control of the main highway from Damortis, to Tarlac, for swift movements of supplies and armored units.

Meanwhile, American planes continued to smash at Jap communication lines and airfields on Luzon and other islands, while long range air patrols swept the China seas.

lace his choice of all government positions, exclusive of the state, war and navy departments, Wallace picked Jones' job and got it.

If Wallace is confirmed by the Senate, he will have won a major victory over the Democratic high command, which tried for seven months to drive him out of the administration. The regular Democrats were aided by a number of New Dealers.

Highlights Of "Ouster" Drive

Here are the highlights of the campaign to ouster Wallace from the summer of 1944. The Democratic high command initiated a coast to coast campaign to discredit Wallace politically, terminating in the first week of July when they convinced Mr. Roosevelt that Wallace would "hurt the ticket" if renominated.

2. Reluctantly, because he preferred Wallace as a running-mate, the President personally hinted to his vice president to retire from the 1944 campaign.

3. Convinced he was being victimized by a "smear" campaign, Wallace told the President personally he would not retire from the race for the Democratic vice presidential nomination unless specifically asked to do so by Mr. Roosevelt. The President did not make that request.

4. Sidney Hillman, head of the CIO Political Action committee and a leading Wallace supporter, was talked into accepting Sen. Harry S. Truman—now vice president—as his second choice before the Democratic convention met.

Sent To China

Throughout the late spring and early summer of 1944, the President told intimates he really wanted Wallace on the ticket in event he ran for a fourth term.

Finally, in June, the President sent Wallace on a diplomatic mission to China. During his absence the Democratic high command flooded the President with anti-Wallace propaganda.

In reality, the high command feared that Wallace might some day succeed to the presidency and turn the whole administration over to the left wing of the party. Hence they decreed the defeat of Wallace.

When Wallace returned from China, the President and he discussed their political futures frankly and bluntly. The President told Wallace that "the boys" had told him that Wallace had no political strength in the country or in the convention. He finally agreed to write a letter of endorsement for Wallace.

The letter, which was made public, was purportedly written at Hyde Park on July 14. In it Mr. Roosevelt wrote to Wallace:

"I like him and I respect him and he is my personal friend. For these reasons, I personally would vote for his renomination if I were a delegate to the convention."

Wallace did not know it at the time but the President had already agreed to accept Senator Truman as his running-mate, if the Missouri was renominated by the convention.

With Truman acceptable to the President, the Hannegan-Walker faction sought to cover up their choice. Hannegan spread the word in personal conferences that Mr. Roosevelt would accept any one of five men as a running-mate.

While circulating the list of "acceptable" names, Hannegan learned with dismay that the President had given Wallace a letter of endorsement. Hannegan thereupon conferred with the President, and the result was that the Truman-Douglas endorsement, dated July 19 at the White House, was handed Hannegan as the President passed through Chicago en route to the West Coast on his visit to Pearl Harbor. It was at this meeting about the Roosevelt train that the President was said to have told Hannegan to "clear everything with Sidney"—Sidney Hillman.

The Hannegan-Walker faction got Hillman's okay on Truman by telling him Wallace could not win and that some one else must be nominated. When they proposed Truman, Hillman said he had "nothing against" the Missourian.

History records that Hillman supported Wallace for one ballot. On the second ballot, the convention was stampeded to Truman, with many of Hillman's followers climbing aboard the bandwagon. Thus, Wallace was denied renomination.

Highways Again Made Dangerous By Heavy Snow

Colder Weather Tonight And Continued Cold Tuesday, Weatherman Announces

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 22.—(INS)—A light snow began covering Western Pennsylvania roads today and highways once again were reported slippery and treacherous.

Freezing rain was falling at Uniontown, and snow was reported at New Castle, Butler, Mercer, Meadville, Washington, Pa., Greensburg and at Imperial.

Dense smog blanketed downtown Pittsburgh this morning, forcing motorists and office building managers to keep their lights on.

Weatherman W. S. Brozman forecast light snow or rain for the area today, colder weather tonight and continued cold tomorrow.

He said most of the snow would fall north of Pittsburgh, along Lake Erie, and the storm was moving towards the east.

Adequate Relief For Disabled U. S. Veterans Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(INS)—The 79th congress was called on today to dedicate itself to providing adequate relief for disabled American veterans "and to do as well by its defenders as Canada does by its wounded heroes."

The campaign opened with national commanders of four veterans' groups spoke on behalf of desired legislation before the house world war veterans committee, of which John E. Rankin (D. Miss.), is chairman. These leaders were:

Edward N. Scheiberling of Albany, N. Y., national commander of the American Legion; Jean A. Brunner, New York City, commander-in-chief, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Harold H. Hamilton, Lancaster, Pa., for the military order of the Purple Heart; and Milton D. Cohn, Buffalo, N. Y., national commander of the disabled war veterans.

Cohn presented a nine-point program, asking this congress to do as well for the disabled as the preceding congress did for GIs in general when it passed the GI bill of rights.

Cohn pointed out that the disabled are growing in number day by day. He said that as of last June 337,311 World War I veterans—of whom 34,000 are totally incapacitated—were receiving compensation for service-connected disability and that figure "as of the end of December" will be passed by the disabled of World War I.

The letter, which was made public, was purportedly written at Hyde Park on July 14. In it Mr. Roosevelt wrote to Wallace:

"I like him and I respect him and he is my personal friend. For these reasons, I personally would vote for his renomination if I were a delegate to the convention."

Munitions Output Slightly Higher

One Per Cent Jump In Munitions Output In December Over November Is Shown

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(INS)—Production of 12 out of 13 critical war munition programs rose in December over November, but WPB today said the record for the month is "scarcely cause for cheering."

Total December war output, including non-critical as well as critical programs—reached a value of five billion 445 million dollars or one per cent more than the five billion 404 million dollars produced the previous month.

Hiland G. Batcheller, WPB chief of operations, said, however, that this was two per cent behind the five billion 546 million dollars worth of war production and construction scheduled for and hoped for during December.

The rocket program was the only one in the critical group which fell in December to top November production.

BRINDLE-BAILEY WEDDING AT TRINITY

Saturday afternoon, January 20, in Trinity Episcopal church, corner of North Mill at Falls street, one of the prettiest weddings of the season as solemnized in the presence of a throng of guests, principals being Miss Jeanne Brindle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Leslie Brindle, 402 North Jefferson street, Frank Harvey Bailey, 1 East Wallace avenue, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey, 95 Steele road, West Hartford, Conn.

Vows were exchanged at 3:30 o'clock before the candlelighted altar enhanced with an arrangement of palms, ferns and vases of white cut flowers, which too outlined the chancel. Rev. Robert M. Griswold, rector, officiated.

Adding further to the impressiveness of the occasion was the program of nuptial music played by Garth Edmundson, organist. In his numbers were "Evening Star" by Wagner, "Trameti" by Schubert, "Prelude to Lohengrin" followed by Lohengrin's "Wedding March", announcing the approach of the bride party. For the recessional, the "Wedding March" by Mendelssohn was triumphantly offered.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attractive in her wedding gown of white transparent velvet, fashioned with sweetheart neckline, moulded bodice, long pointed sleeves and a full floor length gathered skirt. Her fingertip veil of tulle fell from a halo of matching braided velvet. She held a white prayer book that was carried by her mother at her wedding, encrested with a single white orchid with helmsie streamers. Her only jewelry was a pair of gold earrings and a matching bracelet, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Doris Elizabeth Heitsch as maid of honor wore a burgundy velvet formal creation patterned similar to the bride's, with a Juliet cap of matching braided velvet. She carried a contrasting arm bouquet.

James Harvey Steele served the bridegroom as best man.

Immediately following a congratulatory period, a reception was held in the parlour of the Castleton. Later Mr. and Mrs. Bailey left on a wedding trip of several days. Upon returning here, will be home to friends after February 1, at 1 East Wallace avenue.

The bride is a graduate of New Castle High in the June class of 1944. The bridegroom, a graduate of Lehigh university, is employed at the American Cyanamide and Chemical corporation, New Castle.

The rehearsal dinner was given in the Castleton Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey for guests numbering 30, during which time a "Bride's Scrap Book" was completed and presented the couple. Later, they went to the Brindle home to see the array of beautiful shower and wedding gifts received by the couple, the bride being honored at a series of pre-nuptial parties. Present at the dinner from out of town were Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Hostetter, Mrs. Gerald Breese and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Greshing, Miss Marjorie B. House and Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. House.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

LETTERS FROM MOTHERS

A mother writes:

"Dear Dr. Myers:—I read your articles each day and find them very helpful. With three small children to rear—all of them very different—I find no small book can cover all the problems that come up. Being a university graduate and home economist does not always help. Two winters ago I even laid aside minor details in my home to play kindergarten teacher to small number of children in our neighborhood. This was the winter before our last child was born so I was not able to continue. However that three months seemed to fill the need in our home. My eldest son, then five, was anxious for school and we had no public kindergarten. My work fully repaid me."

Cured of Starting Fires

"Dear Dr. Myers:—I never read any of your articles till my child rearing days were over. How I wish I could have had the help your articles give while I needed it. I read them regularly now. I mothered more than twenty children from many different homes. Some for a few weeks, some for months, and some for years. I also had some of my own so you see I could have made good use of your articles."

"But what prompted me to write to you was your article about the boy starting fires. I had a seven-year-old boy who was possessed to start fires. I asked the boy if he would not like a fireplace in the yard where he could start a fire whenever he wanted to and no one would find fault and he would know I could do no harm. He thought that would be very fine. I asked him to build one. He said, 'If you had promised me I did say, 'If you had a nice place like that to have a fire you would not want to start one anywhere else.' 'Oh, no, I would not if I had a fire place,' he said."

Built a Camp-Stove
"With some help he built a camp-stove or fireplace similar to the ones seen in parks, only much smaller. It had a chimney leading from the top. Many a small fish and frog's legs were fried there. Sparrows were too were broiled. Thereafter I never knew of him starting a fire where he should not."

"It proved a very satisfactory plying providing busy work to gather the small twigs, to feed the fire as well as to dress the meat to cook. It was a satisfaction as I looked out and saw two, three, or four boys sitting there tending fire and waiting for things to cook. I knew that they were not in mischief. It might not work out in all cases but it did in ours."

The World and the Mud Puddles

UNAPPRECIATED

Uncle Sam is finding it hard to be a benefactor without some cooperation from the beneficiaries. Governor Lehman, after quite a period of experience, is reported ready to resign as head of the United Nations Rehabilitation and Relief Agency. He is said to be greatly discouraged at the failure of other governments—and in some cases of the people of liberated countries—to aid in his work, or even to sanction it.

If there is any people in urgent need of what the UNRRA could bring them just now, it is Poland. The Nazis have left them destitute, uneducated and victims of disease. Unfortunately, Governor Lehman's agency has not been able to do much about it, for the reason that Russia has not sanctioned any relief program, particularly that of the inhabitants displaced by the Germans. In Italy there has been no spurt of co-operation from the part of the populace, and complaints have been received in this country from Italians who say they were better off under the Nazis than under the Allies. Great Britain has been especially critical of the UNRRA and is said to have a representative on the way to Washington to air its criticisms. We cannot operate in Greece, where relief is urgently needed, on account of the trouble between the Greeks, EAM and the British. In Yugoslavia we are waiting for Tito's consent.

The UNRRA was conceived by the United States as a great humane agency and was expected to save millions from death or distress. It has been liberally financed and its postwar appropriation was expected to be on a tremendous scale. Governor Lehman who is an able executive and sincere in his purposes, has carried on his work at a great personal sacrifice and probably has done as well as anybody could do in the circumstances that have confronted him. But indications are that he is pretty well discouraged and that UNRRA will not achieve its fine purpose until there is a change of attitude in many European countries.

A solution shall be found which will be regarded as just and fair not only by Jew and Arab, but by the world as well.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:04. Sun rises tomorrow 8:19.

It used to be that some people did not take winter vacations because they did not have any money. Now they cannot take them because they cannot travel and have no place to stay.

Politicians have one advantage over generals. When they make a costly blunder, there is nobody to fire them.

The old-fashioned kitchen, where everything froze solid at night, had one advantage. There were no ants or cockroaches in the winter.

It has taken one ton of explosive to kill every Jap we've bagged, not counting the grenades they used in co-operating with us.

Always a bright side. Where people have had too little food, there has been a great decrease of diabetes and other degenerative diseases.

You've heard the one about the kook-farm man on a local, who caught the conductor asleep and caught a skunk skin under his nose, and he didn't awake but called out, "Chicago!"

Some men are wise. Some otherwise.

Women live longer than men because paint is a good preservative.

V-bombs have killed scores of Britons in recent raids. One bomb landing in South England blew a perambulator and baby to pieces but only slightly injured the mother who was wheeled.

Nothing is more attractive in an advertisement than the word "Free."

PERT AND PERTINENT
"Blisters teach us discretion..." —and the memory of what causes them develops cynicism.

"Girls superior to the jitterbug type are few..." —but quite numerous enough to fill the demand of the men who prefer that type.

"The most active creatures are meat eaters — not vegetarians..." —exasperating things — fleas.

"Man wants but little here below..." —the knees.

The sweetest sinking comes from the heart, not from the throat.

It is difficult to say which makes the greatest mistake, the one who believes everything or the one who believes nothing.

There is a terrible fascination to some people about things that are none of their business.

"I tell you, Clara, that Mrs. Jones is simply mad on the subject of germs. She sterilizes or filters everything in the house..." and it sure makes it difficult to keep the house to suit her."

"How does she get along with her husband?"

"Why even their relations are strained."

Good advice given in any other than a kind spirit is like a jewel in a hog's snout.

When two men grow angry, he who is first silent is the wiser of the two.

Noah was six hundred years old before he knew how to build the Ark — there is still hope for you if you are willing to learn.

The world does not change much — back in 400 B. C. in Egypt, the word 'pet' meant heaven.

Morale is that glorious self-satisfied feeling enjoyed by a freshly barbered man or a woman with a new hat.

Frightening Thought: Suppose everybody liked the same things you liked and hated the same things you hated, had the same religious and political views or nursed the same racial prejudices you nurse?

Vital statistics show that women no longer outlive men so much. That's the penalty for living as men do.

On Dogs And The War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. NO ONE wants to distract the President from the great tasks before him by unnecessarily or unduly dwelling upon the misconduct of his children. Nor does anyone want to charge misbehavior to the President's children. Nevertheless there are certain things that should not be too lightly dismissed.

IF they are disregarded or hushed up or passed over, it will be at considerable cost in self-respect to persons for whom self-respect should be important. And it will tend to deteriorate general standards of conduct by encouraging favored persons to use influence to obtain preferential treatment for personal reasons. If once it is established that that sort of thing can be done with impunity, there is sure to be repetition. Such an incident seems to be that of Elliott Roosevelt's shipment by air from England of a large dog to his wife in Colombia, which caused three men in the armed services to be put off a plane and subjected to great inconvenience.

THAT ONE of the men was flying out to see a sick wife and another to go to the funeral of his father is a further aggravation. All this could be bad enough at a time of peace and it is particularly unfortunate that it should have happened at so critical a time in the greatest war of history and at the moment when the President and the chiefs of staff are telling Congress and the country of the urgent necessity of going on a total war basis involving further large civilian sacrifices and a tightening of everybody's belt.

PERHAPS, from Colonel Roosevelt or some other source, an adequate explanation will be made; but the White House statement that no one had asked "priority" for the dog, and that Mr. Roosevelt knew nothing about it, does not seem adequate. Of course, Mr. Roosevelt did not know anything about the dog. But the facts remain—first, that his son shipped the dog from England to this country by air, and then sent it by air clear across the country; second, that the dog and the crate were big enough to occupy three seats in the plane; third, that three service men were put off the plane because of the dog; fourth, that someone somewhere did give the dog priority; fifth, according to Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, this is the second, not the first, dog which her husband has sent her from abroad.

THESE facts appear undisputed. They may seem trivial to some, but they really are anything but trivial. A good many thousands of people all over the United States were indignant and resentful when they heard the story. With paper on seats and planes in tremendous demand for men in the armed services that two large 115-pound dogs should be shipped from England and then transported to the Pacific Coast by air, is just something that is hard to believe. No one has any business to be shipping dogs across the ocean and across the country in times such as these. That sort of thing makes a mockery of the restrictions under which we are now living and the additional ones about to be imposed.

THE people generally have accepted present restrictions and will accept them to come cheerfully and without complaint. They are necessary to win the war and anything that is necessary to win the war has got to be accepted. But, this dog business does not make acceptance any easier, and it does not improve the national temper — rather the reverse. Priority or no priority, it is difficult to conceive any reason that Elliott Roosevelt was permitted to ship his dogs, except that he is the President's son.

CERTAINLY, no one else would have been allowed to do so. And that is what makes it so hard. There is no disposition here to magnify the incident, but certainly the President's son of all people, ought not to be allowed to get by with this sort of thing. For the White House to say that it was just a "regrettable mistake" is not enough. Unable to deny the facts, it could hardly say less. Nor is Colonel Elliott's denial that he had asked priority enough. Priority is not the only point. The main point is that, with airship and train transportation all strained to the limit for war purposes, this business of shipping huge dogs as personal gifts 6,000 miles is distastefully offensive. It ought to be impossible. Something ought to be done about that will cure such a bone about the man of the belief that he is a privileged person who is entitled to do things denied to the ordinary soldier. Perhaps no one asked priority. Perhaps it will turn out that it was the dog that asked priority. At any rate, the dog got "priority" over the service men. If the facts as given remain uncontradicted, then some kind of reprimand is in order. And the Army ought to be made to feel that it is the country to take steps to make retribution of such incidents impossible.

Washington Has New Trio Of Congresswomen
Democratic Women Solos Are Quite Unalike
See A Military Leader Succeeding Roosevelt

By HELEN ESSARY (Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Are the three new Democratic congresswomen—Helen Gahagan Douglas, Emily Taft Douglas and Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse—going to be as useful members of the House?

Or are they going to stick too closely to party lines and to the tradition that new members of Congress should be seldom seen and never heard?

I hope not. Each of these women has ability and courage. Each has a superb chance in her first term to show that women belong in high legislative office. They should be stirrers-up in the Luce manner. Not rubber stamps for committee chairmen.

Two Douglas Women

It is amusing that there should be two Douglas congresswomen. Quite opposite in type they are too. Helen is tall and dominating. Wears slick tailored clothes cut on rather daring lines. Emily Douglas is small and cozy. Very feminine, too, and looks as if she might cover her brains with a delicate and useful helplessness when coping with the opposite or stronger sex. An engaging pair, the Douglas girls. A sister act, maybe. Mrs. Woodhouse is an elegant intellectual. A New England blue-stocking with something of the look of Carrie Chapman Catt, the suffrage crusader of the last generation. Mrs. Woodhouse has a soft voice. It falls soothingly on the ear when you ring her office at the Capitol. To date Mrs. Woodhouse answers the phone herself.

I called to be sure about her name. Was her husband's name "Chase Going"?

"My husband's name is Edward James Woodhouse," she said. "It is my name that is Chase Going. My husband and my daughter, who is a student at the University of North Carolina, will join me for occasional week-ends. They are much to busy to bother with me often." Mrs. Woodhouse is looking for a small apartment in Washington.

All of the three new congresswomen are married. The Douglas girls have husbands abroad.

Well, if men are not alarmed at the way women are stepping out it is because they are not seeing clearly or hearing too well.

Hard To Pep Up G. O. P.

You need to get away from Washington to learn what many of its constituents are thinking. In New York several industrialists and professional men, gathered from distant parts of the country, were discussing the NEXT president of the United States.

"It is time for a Republican of course," said a Republican lawyer from Chicago. "But I do not believe the Republican party has the brains and the strength to use the advantage four more years of the New Deal will give it."

"That is not all," added a Democratic manufacturer from Detroit. "The country is bored with the Republican party. We need to try to play and go to bed when we have colds and leave the darn briefcases and the telephone calls and the secretaries at the office where they belong."

The only thing I ever use a briefcase for is for my pajamas and shaving kit when I go to town.

When I am home—unless I write my column like I do right now—I forget all about the great burden I carry on my shoulders."

May be that is why I walk pretty straight at my age when others I know are stoop-shouldered and gray-haired.

May be that's why I have very few colds and why so many people say I'm just a lazy good-for-nothing, who tells other people what to do and doesn't do it myself.

May be you think it's all wrong. But I like it and I bet I get a lot more out of life than I get. Crof with all his money and all his pills.

LOST CHANCE

My grandire would have loved these days
Of Kettering, Keller, Breer and Zedger.

For he had a mechanic's ways
And was an engineering sader.
He'd been at ease with press and drill
And lathe and forge and factory clamor.

But I have lived this age of thrill
And cannot even use a hammer.
My grandire would have understood

The speech of all our men of science
And what's beneath a motor's hood.
And how to mend some strange appliance.
But I have lived this gadget age,
Talked off with Kettering, Ford and Keller.

And, ignorant of rule and gauge,
I've merely been a story teller.
Too soon my dear, old grandire died;
Too early closed his worldly mission!

For he had taken joy and pride
In instruments of close precision.
He used to tell us we'd advance
To brighter lights than lamp and candle.

And oh! he would have loved the chance
That I have had, but couldn't handle.

It Takes More Than Money

About the time public opinion in this country reached its peak in deciding that we would have nothing further to do with the troubles of the rest of the world, a handful of pioneers in the aviation industry started development of the first long range bombers. That was in 1934. In the ensuing few years those pioneers mortgaged themselves to the eyes to carry forward their work of building the world's mightiest planes. They spent millions of dollars on experiments, sometimes only to see them crash into oblivion. Little public encouragement was forthcoming because preparation for war was not politically popular in the peaceful thirt

Effort To Force
Resignation Of GOP Chairman

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 22.—(INS)—An effort to force the resignation of Chairman Herbert Brownell Jr. developed today as the Republican national committee met in Indianapolis to map plans for the 1946 congressional and the 1948 presidential election campaigns.

Leaders of the movement to oust Brownell frankly asserted they were shooting 1 Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York as a possible candidate to become the party standard bearer again in 1948, rather than at Brownell personally.

A resolution was prepared voting confidence in Brownell's leadership, but another was introduced demanding that a chairman be chosen to give full time to the job at a salary of $25,000 or $30,000 a year.

The Brownell supporters, however, claimed they had a majority of the 104 members of the committee and that the plan of the insurgents would be defeated.

Behind the fight to unhorse Brownell, the 40-year-old New York lawyer and Gov. Dewey's intimate friend, was said to be Harrison E. Spangler of Iowa, former national chairman.

Old Age Relief Becomes Largest Category In State

Public Assistance Secretary Says
Other Kinds Of Relief Have Declined Much Faster

HARRISBURG, Jan. 22.—Although the number of Old-Age assistance recipients has declined by 20,000 since 1941, the other types of assistance have declined more rapidly so that now more than 40 per cent of the public assistance cases are elderly persons, according to a report from Robert P. Wray, acting secretary of Public Assistance.

In Lawrence County during the month of December, Old Age relief had a larger list of cases than any other type of relief. Lack of resources and work capacities, and the infirmities of age make self-support impossible for this sizeable group, the report stated.

The Lawrence County board of public assistance handled 149 cases involving 179 persons during the week ending January 13, 1945. During the month of December, 1944, 835 Old Age cases were handled; 157 dependent children cases involving 621 children; and 138 blind person recipients were taken care of, Mr. Wray continued.

State Buys 36,375 Acres Game Land

HARRISBURG, Jan. 22.—Pennsylvania purchased 36,375 acres of game land in 1944, making a total area of 778,736 acres acquired for use of sportsmen, the State Game Commission reported today.

Largest of the new tracts were 10,983 acres in Dauphin County, 7074 in Tioga and 4162 in Pike. At the beginning of the present year 38,229 additional acres were under option and the Commission recently decided to purchase 1575 acres in Lehigh, Bucks, Pike, Tioga, Clearfield and Potter Counties. Acquisition of 678 acres in Lycoming County to become part of the new wild turkey farm near Barbours also was approved.

The Commission said the total acreage acquired in 63 counties during the past 25 years, was purchased for $2,945,551, or approximately $3.79 per acre.

THE EXPECTANT FATHER

It seems to be a good idea for the expectant mother to get medical advice as soon as she can.

Perhaps the expectant father could benefit by some information and advice too.

When the expected baby is the first one, medical help is especially valuable.

Hubby can learn many things which will help him to be a better husband and father.

There should be no embarrassment whatever, as to getting medical advice. A doctor should be chosen and consulted promptly.

His friendly instruction and guidance will be found very helpful.

Parenthood is a partnership with equal responsibilities.

Paper Collection

Totals 95 Tons

On January 13

Ninety-five tons of waste paper and magazines were collected in New Castle and adjoining townships on Saturday January 13. It was announced today. This is the second largest collection of paper since the paper collections started.

The collection of January 13 proves one thing and that is that the paper is here if the citizens will only take time to bundle it and put it out on the curbs for the collectors.

With this high total for the first collection of the new year it is hoped the February collection will fare as well.

General Assembly Starts Third Week

HARRISBURG, Jan. 22.—(INS)—The General Assembly began its third week today by marking time pending the outcome of another attempt of Republican and Democratic leaders to agree on non-partisan legislation.

The Senate will convene this afternoon at four o'clock and the House five hours later.

Another conference designed to reduce unnecessary bickering in both houses has been scheduled for tomorrow when legislative chiefs of both parties were slated to meet with Gov. Edward Martin.

Among the subjects to be discussed were liberalized occupational disease benefits and amendments to the election code to facilitate military balloting in primary and municipal elections.

State election officials and bipartisan leaders were understood to have approved tentative legislation to move the primary voting date from September 12 to May 22. However, they have not decided whether to send secret ballot to members of the armed forces without applications.

Leaders were hopeful of drafting a well-rounded program of non-partisan measures in order to spur the 258 lawmakers to an early adjournment. The governor has called for sine die adjournment by April 1.

'Sunday Punch' For Hitler-Tojo

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.—(INS)—Hitler and Tojo were slated today to reel soon from the effects of a "Sunday punch" delivered by more than 1,000 employees of the Army's Philadelphia Ordnance district.

Setting a precedent for federal workers, the employees worked yesterday—without pay—to complete a record seven-day work week to speed the flow of arms and ammunition.

A total of 92 per cent of the total personnel showed up at district headquarters for work yesterday to "bring the day of victory one day nearer," a spokesman said.

Following the lead of the Philadelphia office, employees of the district's regional offices in Bethlehem and York, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; and Richmond, Va., also contributed the extra day to their normal six-day work-week.

Guerrilla Warfare Rugged Business, Even In The Movies

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 22.—(INS)—Guerrilla warfare is rugged business even in Hollywood, an R-K-O film troupe found out today.

The director, two of the stars and 80 other persons connected with its picture, "Invisible Army," are victims of poison oak, the studio disclosed.

All of the sufferers, it was announced, have been filming location scenes supposed to show guerrilla action against the Japs in the Philippines.

Today, shooting on the picture virtually was at a standstill. Director Edward Dmytryk's eyes were swollen almost shut. Actor Anthony Quinn has the poison oak all the way up his legs to his waist.

Hero John Wayne was affected only on the hands and arms.

Man Is Killed At Struthers, O.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 22.—John Ramun, 22, of nearby Struthers, was killed instantly Sunday, police said, when a car in which he was riding collided head-on with a truck carrying 25 Baltimore and Ohio Railroad track workers.

Ten of the workers were treated for injuries. Michael Ramun, 24, brother of John, suffered fracture of the skull. He was driving the car.

Robert Wimer, 23, of Lowellville, driver of the truck, told police that Ramun's car crossed the East End bridge at a high rate of speed and crashed into the truck on the wrong side of the street in Wilson avenue.

COUSINS MEET IN FRENCH BATTLE AREA

Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Johns of 318 Cunningham avenue have received word from their son, Sgt. William Johns, attached to the combat engineers, that he had met his cousin, Pvt. James T. Morgan, of the engineers, in the battle area of France. The latter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Morgan of the same address.

Word has also come from Staff Sgt. George Edward Johns, of the signal corps, who has been confined to the hospital in Netherlands East Indies, that he has recovered and is back with his outfit.

SLED RIDER KILLED
VANDERGRIFT, Pa., Jan. 22.—(INS)—Edward S. McClelland, 12, of Vandergrift was killed instantly when the sled on which he was riding with two other youths crashed into an iron pole on Hancock avenue, the coroner's office today reported.

2858 U. S. Soldiers Convicted In Britain

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The Army and Navy Journal said today that 3185 American officers and men were court martialled for offenses committed in the United Kingdom between July 15, 1942, and Aug. 1, 1944.

Of these 2858 were convicted and 327 acquitted. There have been 19 convictions for murder, with seven executions and 12 sentences of life imprisonment.

Twenty-four persons were convicted of attacking women of whom three were executed. The journal said it reported that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower disapproved one death sentence for attack and commuted three others to life imprisonment.

MAIL CARRIER HAS ARM BROKEN

Mont W. Forney of 713 Carlisle street sustained a fracture of the right arm while carrying the mail on his route in the downtown section Friday afternoon, when he slipped and fell on the icy pavement. He was taken to the Jameson Memorial hospital, where the injury was treated.

Commanders Of Army And Navy To Reveal Facts

By WILLIAM J. THIES
Times Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Congressional military leaders, encouraged by a break in management opposition, took hope today that their work-or-be-jailed bill may be saved from defeat by this week's "confidential" war report from the chiefs of the army and navy.

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, will give members of both house and senate a frank "off-the-record" report Wednesday on progress of the war and the critical needs ahead.

The joint session was regarded as significant because the commanders will be appearing personally before congress in advance of floor action on legislation to force 18 to 45 year old men into war jobs.

While the Jan. 24 meeting loomed as a bright spot for labor draft advocates, the muddled manpower picture was highlighted by other developments.

Other Developments

Rep. May (D) Ky., reconvened his house military committee to complete action today on his manpower bill. May announced he would try to restore the penalty provision of army induction stricken from the measure last Friday.

A full dress debate was expected to be touched off in the senate by members of the Mead war investigating committee laying before that body evidence of alleged manpower waste.

"Big steel" through the WPB iron and steel advisory committee, endorsed the work or fight program vigorously opposed last week by the National Association of Manufacturers and labor unions.

The 16 steel executives comprising the committee also urged that a threat of any tie-up in coal production resulting from expiration of the United Mine Workers' contract next March 31 be met "head-on". Present depleted coal inventories coupled with increased steel production schedules constitute a "serious threat" to steel operations, they held.

The WPB release made no mention of how legislation might affect a work stoppage in the coal fields should any develop next April as it did two years ago.

The May bill in its present form, would make any man between 18 and 45 subject to penalty of $10,000 fine or five years imprisonment if he left an essential job without his draft board's approval.

Seek Compliance With Orders For Light 'Brownout'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(INS)—The WPB's war utilities office requested the nation's electric utilities today to enlist the support of municipal law enforcement machinery to obtain compliance with the fuel-conservation "brownout" to become effective February 1.

The brownout order prohibiting use of electricity for specified types of "unnecessary" outdoor sign and decorative lighting, provides WPE may direct disconnection of electric service to a consumer who persists in a violation after formal notice. Service may be restored then only on authority from WPE.

G.O.P. National Committee Meets

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 22.—(INS)—The Republican national committee met today virtually committed to furtherance of international cooperation as recommended by Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R) of Michigan.

Chairman Herbert Brownell, Jr., indicated that current party sentiment was toward an alignment behind the cooperation viewpoint of Sen. Vandenberg. His stand was supported by the statement of the two Indiana senators, Raymond E. Willis and Homer E. Capehart, who said isolationism was dead in the nation.

Matts McLean of San Antonio, Tex., member of the GOP national finance committee, declared the Republicans should dissociate themselves definitely from New Deal implications. He said former Ohio Governor John W. Bricker, 1944 vice presidential nominee, would be a good spokesman for this program.

Lord Moyne Slayers Sentenced To Hang

CAIRO, Jan. 22.—(INS)—Eliahu Hakim and Eliahu Ben Soury, youthful Jewish terrorists from Palestine, today were formally sentenced by the Egyptian courts to be hanged for the slaying of Lord Moyne, British resident minister of the Middle East.

The pair was convicted of shooting and killing Lord Moyne and his chauffeur last November. Admitting their guilt at the trial, both steadfastly refused to reveal any secrets of the organization which ordered them to kill the minister.

Unemployed Receive $384 Here Last Week

Unemployment compensation during the week ending January 19, 1945, amounted to $52,236, which was disbursed in 3,426 checks, according to State Treasurer G. Harold Wagner.

Of this sum $384 went to New Castle and $3,751 to District One, of which New Castle is a part.

The New York State Conservation Department is using approximately one ton of seed this year to produce 17 million forest trees for field planting in 1946 and 1947.

Postwar Policy To Be Discussed

Reason For Secretary Stettinius Accompanying President To Next Parley

By LEON PEARSON
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—With the disclosure that Secretary of State Stettinius will accompany President Roosevelt to the Big Three conference, Washington officials emphasized today the bargaining power of the American delegation at that meeting.

The time has passed, it was said, when discussion of postwar policies must be subordinated to discussion of war strategy at such a conference.

And the time has arrived when President Roosevelt, with support from his secretary of state, will be able to bargain effectively with the European chiefs for certain political objectives cherished by the American people.

Stettinius, it was believed, will go to the conference with a strong sense of the American public's growing skepticism on "spheres of influence" and "power politics." Also he will sustain the President with the bargaining power that comes from United States control of the material assets for postwar power.

List Of Assets
State department economists have made their own lists of these assets. They include control of the greatest merchant marine in the world's history, control of the only important production of rubber, and control of the greatest lending power in the world.

As one indication of the bargaining mood of the United States, it was pointed out that the fourth lend-lease protocol with Russia has not yet been signed. Lend-lease is continuing to move to that country, but negotiation of terms has been held back until certain outstanding problems are cleared up. In congressional circles, there was confidence that the presence of Stettinius with President Roosevelt would have the effect of strengthening the United States determination to win important political commitments from Great Britain and Russia in return for postwar co-operation.

This will be Stettinius' first trip outside of the country since becoming secretary of state December 1. As undersecretary, he went to London for several weeks' discussions with British officials last spring.

It will be the first time the three chiefs have met together in company of their three foreign ministers.

1944 One Of Driest During Last 57 Years

WOOSTER, O., Jan. 22.—The year 1944 was one of the six driest in the last 57 years, J. T. McClure, weather observer at the Ohio agricultural experiment station, Wooster, reports.

Rainfall from 1941 through 1944 averaged less than 30 inches a year—a loss of almost one year's rainfall in four.

As a result, McClure said, many springs and wells in the Wooster area, never before affected by dry weather, are very low or dried up. The year, McClure continued, was only slightly colder than average. May was 6.1 degrees above average. The snowfall Dec. 11 and 12 totaled seven inches at Wooster, the most to fall there in any 24-hour period since Jan. 9, 1926, when an equal amount fell. An eight-inch fall was experienced in 24 hours Dec. 8, 1917.

HELD IN SHOOTING

STEUENVILLE, O., Jan. 22.—(INS)—Steuenville authorities today were holding Oliver G. Jones, 53, who allegedly shot and killed Mrs. Geneva Randolph, 34, as they sat sipping drinks in the Century club.

Jones was taken into custody after two men grabbed him when his gun failed to fire in an alleged attempt to end his own life. Police said he told them the woman was his common-law wife and that she had "done him out of a lot of money."

Seek Redress For Commandeering Of Brooklyn Train

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(INS)—Militant Brooklyn today prepared to take on the United States over the sad fate of the pride of its main subway, an aluminum luxury train complete with leather cushions and sonorous door chimes.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia revealed yesterday that the Federal government had commandeered this crack streamliner of the Brooklyn-Manhattan transit division two years ago and had carved it up callously for junk.

Not only that, said the mayor, but the War Production Board had reimbursed the city only $3,500 against a claim of $131,000.

According to the mayor, "some very stupid, ignorant agent of the War Production Board salvage division, which always was inefficient, commandeered the thing."

Mayor LaGuardia revealed that he has been seeking redress from the treasury department for at least some of the difference between $3,500 and $131,000.

But what Brooklyn—now that it knows—is going to do is anyone's guess.

Seek Use Of Old Street Car Route

PARRELL, Pa., Jan. 22.—New Castle has been asked to join with Parrell, Wheatland and West Middlesex in a movement to have Pennsylvania highway department construct a highway on the roadbed of old Wheatland-West Middlesex street car line.

State Senator J. Fred Thomas of Sharon favors the project which would furnish a short route to New Castle. The highway would be an extension of Broadway from Wheatland to West Middlesex.

Farrell civic leaders favor the highway as it would add hundreds of war workers. The road was first suggested when the street car line was abandoned nearly 20 years ago.

CURATIVE POWERS FOUND IN LICHENS

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 22.—Four Yale scientists disclosed today that lichens, abundant in Arctic areas, have been found to contain disease-checking substances "with power to inhibit the growth of bacteria, similar to that of Penicillin."

The scientists, Paul R. Burkholder, Alexander W. Evans, Ilda McVeigh and Helen K. Thornton, announced that "already 60 out of 118 tested species have been found to contain antibiotic substances, although identification of the substances active against specific bacteria awaits further chemical experimentation."

Manpower Is Being Wasted In War Plants

Senator Mead Makes Charges In Speech To Senate During Afternoon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(INS)—Sen. James M. Mead (D) N. Y., chairman of the Senate war investigating committee, charged in a senatorial Senate speech today that manpower is being wasted and men are loafing in America's war production plants.

"Full national service at this stage of the war, with the present inefficiencies in utilization, would result only in chaos," said Mead.

Mead blasted both private plants and those conducted by the armed services and he also charged the armed forces with wasting services of men in uniform.

He based his speech upon an investigation of the Norfolk navy yard, conducted last week by a subcommittee. The same conditions, he said, exist in many plants over the country.

Deeply Disturbing
"What we learned in Norfolk is deeply disturbing and most significant," said Mead. He declared that the Norfolk navy yard, which employed over 38,000 people, has called for more than 4,000 workers.

"But in this yard," said Mead, "the committee found excess manpower, wasted labor, hoarded labor and idleness."

"We did not investigate the entire yard but we checked several large shops employing thousands of people. We also went through several ships."

Here is what we found: Each of the members of our subcommittee personally saw idleness and loafing on a big scale. Men stood and sat around in groups smoking and talking right on the decks of vital fighting ships. Their bosses were not to be seen. The men themselves think there were too many of them on the jobs. They say they are unable to do an honest day's work.

"So many men are assigned to some jobs that they cannot even all squeeze into the place. Most of them stand around outside while a few work."

Troubled Future For Legislation Of Administration

Storm Clouds Are Appearing On Horizon Which Bode Ill For Proposals

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(INS)—President Roosevelt's legislative program faced a troubled future today at the very outset of the fourth term administration.

Despite the fact that Democratic representation was increased in the House in the last election, storm clouds already have appeared on the horizon which bode ill for some of the administration's proposals.

The resistance of labor to national service or work or fight legislation, together with a Republican reluctance to grant the administration more power, makes the course of this legislation doubtful.

Such a strong division of opinion has broken out on the question of compulsory peace-time military service that early enactment of legislation is also doubtful. Mr. Roosevelt is expected soon to send a special message to Congress on the subject.

Chances are good for expanded social security legislation. But a legislative program designed to assure 60 million peace-time jobs—when coupled with virtual government underwriting of the jobs—invited prolonged controversy.

Mr. Roosevelt's major foreign policy proposal—an international organization to prevent future wars—faced a better prospect of ratification by a two-thirds Senate vote. Approval of a treaty embodying such an organization, however, it was admitted, depends to a large extent upon the forum in which it is submitted.

Says Appointment Of Wallace Will Shock Business

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(INS)—Republican Senate Leader Wallace H. White, Jr., of Maine, said today that President Roosevelt's appointment of Henry A. Wallace as secretary of commerce "will shock and dismay the business interests of our country."

White, however, declined to predict whether the Republicans will fight confirmation of Wallace.

"The dismissal of Mr. Jones is greatly to be regretted," said White. "The President in his letter to the secretary acknowledges the long, faithful and splendid service Mr. Jones has rendered the government. His public record and the President's commendation of it is the compelling reason for the retention of Mr. Jones."

"Apparently political service by Mr. Wallace outweighs public service by Mr. Jones."

Allied Troops In Main Port Of Ramree Island

KANDY, Ceylon, Jan. 22.—(INS)—Troops of the Fifteenth Indian Corps, who yesterday morning landed on Ramree Island, 70 miles south-southeast down the Arakan coast from Akyab, today were reported to have entered Kyaukpadaung, the main port on the island.

Yesterday's landing met only little opposition, but the invading forces were challenged from high ground west of Kyaukpadaung. They were supported by tanks and artillery.

Three prongs of the drive on Mandalay, capital of northern Burma, made further progress. One column of Gen. Sir William Slims British fourteenth army, driving south from Sittoung, was up against strong Japanese resistance eighteen miles from Sagalee.

Sagalee is about seven miles downstream from Mandalay, on the opposite bank of the Irrawaddy.

Further to the west, Fourteenth Army troops fought for the possession of Monywa, a Japanese base of some importance. There was street fighting and a rifle range in the northeastern outskirts of the town was captured, while over a hundred Allied planes roared overhead, striking at Japanese positions in and around the base.

In the northern combat area Chinese troops of the Thirty-eighth Division and the Chinese expeditionary force linked up in Muse.

Snow Today Adds To Traffic Problem
Traveling This Morning Found Precarious As Snow Covers Up Icy Spots On Pavements

Snow, which started before daylight this morning and continued on later in the day, caused precarious traffic conditions throughout the city. Pedestrians found the going extremely treacherous this morning, as the snow covered icy spots on the pavement and danger lurked in every step.

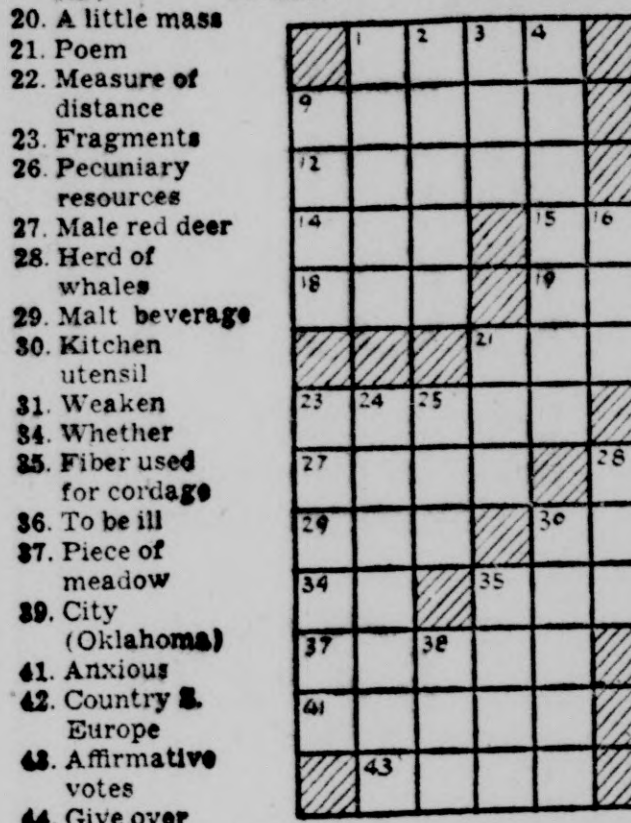

Motorists, many of whom have worn out their chains and cannot replace them, also found the going to be hazardous, because they couldn't tell what was underneath.

Full Employment Act Is Introduced

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(INS)—A national full employment act designed to assure full-time jobs for all Americans was introduced in the Senate today by four Democratic senators—Murray, Mont. Wagner, N. Y.; Thomas, Utah; and O'Mahoney, Wyo.

The measure embodies President Roosevelt's proposal for a national production and unemployment budget by which necessary Federal expenditures would be determined.

While designed to achieve Mr. Roosevelt's promise of sixty million peace-time jobs, authors of the measure said they purposely omitted a specific figure. The number, they said, might vary from year to year.

The bill says nothing in it shall be construed as calling for or authorizing operation of factories by the Federal government or use of compulsory measures in allocating manpower.

Full backing of private enterprise is made a declared policy of the government. The bill says: "It is the policy of the United States to foster free competitive enterprise and the investment of private capital in trade and commerce and in the development of the natural resources of the United States."

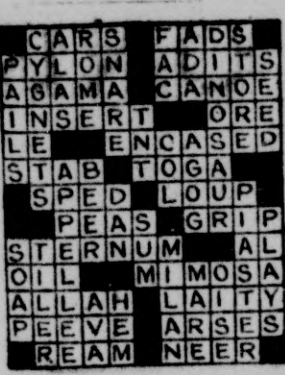

Roosevelt Calls For Americans To Aid Food Growing
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(INS)—President Roosevelt called upon the American people today to step into the breach that will be caused by the loss of more young farmers to the armed forces and to grow, conserve and aid in the harvesting of foods to the greatest possible extent.

The president said that food conservation is essential to the winning of the war and that everyone must do his part.

Japanese Diet In Secret Session
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(INS)—The Japanese diet went into secret session today to hear a detailed report by Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu on the "international situation," the Japanese Domei agency reported.

HAMMER OIL PLANT
PARIS, Jan. 22.—(INS)—More than 200 Flying Fortresses of the United States Eighth Air Force today attacked the synthetic oil plant at Sterkrade, Germany, in the Ruhr.

The heavies were escorted by more than 100 Mustangs of the same command.

German Soldiers In West Not Told Of Red Success

By FRANK CONNIEF

(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH AMERICAN INFANTRY IN THE ARDENNES, Jan. 22—German soldiers fighting on the Western front do not realize today that the Ardennes offensive has boomeranged and have not been told by their commanders of the Red Army's crushing surge across Poland.

As a result, Nazi tankers and infantrymen persist in their belief that Fuehrer's genius has reversed the tide of battle and that somehow the German war machine has regained the vigor that shattered French and Polish armies in its heyday.

Prisoners Still Cocky

"The Jerry prisoners we're taking now are still cocky," said Sgt. Henry Schleich, of 6 Elder street, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who has talked to many of them recently. "They think Rundstedt's offensive is still going full blast."

"Even though they find themselves captives they think the drive is continuing in other sectors. They never see a map which could show them how the bulges have dwindled. As for the Eastern front, they have not been told a single word of the developments."

The following letter taken from a Nazi soldier hepped up with fanaticism and the vision of victory illustrates the difficult task facing Wehrmacht commanders when they attempt to explain why the Americans have not crumpled under the German blows.

"Who would have expected an attack like this everyone's enthusiastic," the letter said. "It's like a giant flood forward which gives proof of German power and organization. Thanks to providence the Fuehrer is with us and has given us strength to endure until victory. All the prisoners I see are Americans."

The same writer grudgingly admitted that "I talked with German civilians in cities which we recaptured and asked them how the Americans behaved. They all were favorably impressed. Germans were left alone."

Keep Red Drive Secret

German commanders hesitate to reveal the extent of the Russian drive to soldiers on the front because it would almost certainly have a depressing effect. German prisoners who fought the Russians freely admit the Nazis committed excesses. They make no attempts to conceal atrocities, even admitting their own participation.

Consequently, they fully expect the Red Army to launch reprisals once they enter German cities. They are honestly convinced the Soviets will torture civilians and drag thousands off to forced labor.

They do not expect similar treatment at the hands of the Americans. Stuffed with propaganda, they cannot understand why Americans should be fighting on German soil and destroying German cities. They still cherish the hope Americans will someday realize the Germans have been waging a holy war to save civilization from Bolshevism.

When they tell that to American soldiers, the doughboys just laugh—and keep fighting harder.
